British Navy Sinks Own Battleship

Cruiser Southampton Is Sunk After It Is Set Afire by Axis Bombers

Eagle Is Hit

Aircraft Carrier Damaged by Torpedo; Two Others Hit

(By The Associated Press)
The British admiralty acknowledged today that the 9,100-ton British cruiser Southampton—one of three British warships damaged by Axis bombers off Sicily January 10—has been sunk by British forces after it caught fire.

An Italian newspaper also reported that the British aircraft carrier Eagle was hit by a Fascist plane-launched torpedo in the Mediterranean area, where the Rome-Berlin Axis has unleashed a concerted aerial offensive against Britain's sea blockade.

The admiralty said most of the Southampton's crew was saved. Its communique said a British submarine had sunk two Italian supply ships in the central Mediterranean.

The torpedo hit on the Eagle brought to a total of 16 the British ships—14 warships and two merchantmen—listed by the Italians as having been sunk or damaged since the Axis offensive began January 9.

The aircraft carrier Illustrious and the 1,335-ton destroyer Gallarate were the other two British warships damaged. Both managed to reach port.

"HMS Southampton had subsequently to be sunk by our own forces when it was found impracticable to tow it into port," the admiralty said.

Wilhelmshaven Raided
British RAF bombers pounded the Wilhelmshaven naval base overnight and smashed at the new German air base at Catania, Sicily—springboard for a Nazi aerial offensive against the British Mediterranean fleet.

Even as reports were made on these assaults, fresh details emerged today of the "seven hours of hell" rained on the aircraft carrier Illustrious by German dive-bombers January 10.

Hitler's high command acknowledged 20 killed and 35 wounded in the RAF's night-long assault on Wilhelmshaven, which the British described as "the heaviest and most successful" in a series of 40 attacks on the port.

RAF pilots said fires started at the naval station were so fierce and widespread they had difficulty picking out specific targets.

An Associated Press correspondent aboard the Illustrious reported 40 to 50 Nazi planes dropped 100,000 pounds of high explosives and "many torpedoes" whose concussion, he said, shook the 23,000-ton ship "as a cat shakes a rat."

What was the most tremendous, terrifying thing I have ever seen, a British naval officer on the Illustrious said. "It seemed like all the fires of hell had been kindled. The blast of a 1,000-pound bomb is so crushing, so incredible. There are no words to describe it."

The German planes which participated in the attack were said to have flown from the base at Catania.

The Italian high command declared that the RAF night raiders inflicted only "minor damage" at Catania, with several killed and "a few" wounded.

While RAF bombers carried out widespread overnight attacks, Minister of Health Malcolm MacDonald ordered the compulsory removal from eater London of all children under 14 who might suffer "in mind or body" from the Germans' aerial siege of the city—now in its fifth month.

Besides the heavy attack on Wilhelmshaven, the Lon Air Ministry reported RAF raids on airfields in northwest Germany and Holland; the harbor at Brest, in Nazi-occupied France; and docks at Emden, Bremerhaven and Flushing.

Mayor Says Almighty Always Has Helped

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 16 (P)—Vetoing a $3,500 appropriation asked by the council for 15 new blades and a sidewalk tractor, Mayor John W. Lyons last night told the group:

"The Almighty sends snow, and if we have patience enough, He will remove it. He always has."

"People who compliment us in February about snow removal are the same ones who get hot under the collar in July when they get their tax bills."

Lindbergh Has No Connection With 'No War' Group

'Lone Eagle' Says That He Has Tried to Cooperate With Those Opposed, but Is Not Member

New York, Jan. 16 (P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today that while he had "attempted to cooperate with all American organizations opposed to our entering the war in Europe" he had no connection with the no foreign war committee.

His statement, telegraphed to The Associated Press from Huntington, Long Island, follows:

"I wish to state that while I have attempted to cooperate with all American organizations opposed to our entering the war in Europe, I have no connection with the no foreign war committee. Shortly after the no foreign war campaign was launched in Washington, I agreed to speak at an opening meeting in St. Louis providing certain conditions were met. These conditions were not met, and since that time the no foreign war campaign has undergone reorganization."

"I attended a number of conferences when its successor, the no foreign war committee, was being formed, but found myself unable to support the methods and policies adopted by the new organization. I have at no time been a member of the committee, nor have I contributed to its financial support. My belief that it would be disastrous for this country to enter the war remains unchanged, and I intend to continue the stand I have taken against our participation."

Will Be Arraigned
Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 16 (P)—Undersheriff Howard Duckworth said today that Jay Thoron Rutledge, 23-year-old WPA laborer accused of twisting his baby son's leg until it broke because the child's crying annoyed him, would be arraigned in circuit court tomorrow on cruelty charges. Duckworth said Rutledge had signed a statement admitting that he broke the nine-month-old child's leg the night of January 8 while his wife was away from home. "After that I just let him scream and tried to get some sleep," the officer quoted the father as saying.

Man Is Held After Shooting of Child

Girl, 16 Months Old, Given Slight Chance to Recover

Philadelphia, Jan. 16 (P)—A 16-months old girl, shot while she lay in her carriage on a crowded street, was given only a slight chance for recovery today and police charged her father with aggravated assault and battery with firearms.

Charles Braun, 32, accompanied by his attorney, surrendered last night about five hours after his infant daughter, Joan, had been critically wounded. Doctors said Joan, conscious and crying with a bullet in her head, had a slight chance for recovery.

Sergeant Joseph Kest said the shooting occurred shortly after Braun met his estranged wife, who was pushing her child in the carriage.

There apparently was no violent argument, Kest related, but when Braun started to leave, he suddenly produced a gun and started firing. Four shots went wild, the fifth struck Joan.

Ulster County Chapter Has Balance Of $408.50 to Aid 'Polio' Work

At the annual meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, held at the Stuyvesant Hotel last evening, Treasurer Robert H. Herzog, read to the committee his annual report.

Mr. Herzog reported to the committee that on January 1, the committee had a balance of cash in the amount of $408.50. The total revenue and Birthday Ball dances held in Ulster county in 1940, yielded $925.49.

It was reported the committee had been called upon heavily during the year, thus making it necessary to draw upon the surplus funds of the chapter in order to meet all outstanding requests for assistance. In explaining the various expenditures, Mr. Herzog said that the year required the largest expenditures of its history. He said that during 1940, 14 pairs of shoes were purchased for crippled children, and 10 sets of braces either were purchased or were repaired. Several memberships in the Y.M.C.A. were provided in order that the beneficial exercises of swimming could be given to the sufferers of infantile paralysis.

Two major operations were performed in local hospitals and many X-rays and other services were defrayed by the Ulster chapter. "We are being called upon more heavily today than at any time (Continued on Page 17)

Hoover Is For Defined Authority

Asks House Committee to Insert 'Positive Definitions' in British Aid Bill

Gives Opinions

Former President Lists Several Points Needed to Keep Out of War

New York, Jan. 16 (P)—Former President Herbert Hoover called today on the House foreign affairs committee to insert in the proposed aid-to-Britain bill "positive definitions" of the powers to be given President Roosevelt.

In a letter to Committee Chairman Sol Bloom (D-N.Y.), who said Tuesday the committee would be glad to hear all opponents and supporters of the measure, Hoover said:

"There is unfortunately growing up in the country a bitterness of discussion which it seems to me in the interest of national unity could be allayed by the committee. This division lies largely in the interpretations and implications in respect to the powers proposed to be conferred in this bill and its meaning."

Hoover, asserting that he favored extending "every practicable aid, short of war, to Britain" but that he did "not approve of our joining in the war," listed several points on which he said the controversy centered.

Cites His Reasons
"For example," he wrote, "citizens of high patriotic thought and experience, who desire to support the President, believe that under the bill and even without any supplemental action by the Congress: 'That battleships and other naval vessels could be given away; 'That our defense be vitally impaired by giving away army equipment; 'That equipment and materials provided in the bill could be transported through the war zone in American ships conveyed by the American navy; 'That commodities and articles could be purchased in other countries with our money; 'That alien ships now in sanctuary in our harbors could be seized; 'Ports may be raided."

"That it opens American ports to repair of belligerent vessels and makes such ports bases for belligerent operations and may become the objective of them; 'That the program of gifts to Britain could begin before the very considerable resources now available to the British government in the United States had been first called upon as payment or collateral; 'That the bill could cancel parts of the labor laws, the Johnson act, the neutrality acts, the Hague conventions and possibly other laws; 'That it empowers involvement in war as distinguished from a declaration of war by the Congress."

Hoover said there were many other questions which have been raised, among them time and expenditure limits, and added: "It seems to be urgent that these matters should be at once clarified because the public mind is apprehensive and confused."

"If the committee would at once draft into the bill positive definitions of what these powers are and specifically exclude what they are not, I am sure such an early action would enable concrete debate and eliminate much controversy and bitterness. As I said, it would greatly contribute to national unity."

STIMSON THINKS U. S. FACES DANGER OF INVASION BY AIR

Hull Urges Enactment of Lease-Lend Bill

"Absolutely necessary" to the nation's defense was the description given to the administration's lease-lend bill by Secretary of State Cordell Hull (seated left at table) who urged its enactment before the house foreign affairs committee on the opening day of the committee's hearings in Washington. From extreme right facing Hull as he reads his 3,000-word statement, are Representatives Edith N. Rogers (R-Mass.), George H. Tinkham (hands to head) (R-Mass.), Hamilton Fish (R-N.Y.) and Chairman Sol Bloom (D-N.Y.).

Secretary Knows Of No Other Funds Than Those Listed

Sums Up Situation With Announced Support of Lending Bill; Gives Churchill Figures

Washington, Jan. 16 (P)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that, to the best of his knowledge, the Churchill government in London had no assets available for American purchases besides the $1,775,000,000 of gold, cash and securities which he reported to Congress yesterday.

The treasury head, at a press conference, described the figures which he presented to the House foreign affairs committee yesterday as the best figures available, and said they left out no wealth, convertible into American dollars, which the Churchill government "could lay its hands on."

(Morgenthau gave the committee this overall picture of the British financial situation as far as purchases in this country are concerned.)

"Britain will require $3,019,000 in dollar exchange this year. She anticipates dollar-exchange receipts of $1,555,000,000, leaving an operating deficit of $1,464,000,000. To meet this deficit the $1,775,000,000 store of assets must be drawn upon, so it is estimated that by the year-end only $311,000,000 of the assets will be left to the British."

To his press conference Morgenthau explained that although the estimate of assets did not contain values for Canadian and other empire investments in the United States, those resources were not available to London.

Declining to estimate the value of these additional assets, he said: "The British empire is a family and it has the same problems as a human family. Just because some members of the family may have some assets does not necessarily mean that they belong to the rest of the family."

Asked whether England should not be forced to go to the rest of the British empire for financial aid, before asking it of America, the secretary declared:

"All I can say about that is that I favor the lending bill."

Japan Says U. S. Should Remove Navy From East; Press Asks Action

Nazis Interested In Hull Speech 'Evasion'

Berlin, Jan. 16 (P)—Secretary of State Hull's remarks before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington interested official Germany for two reasons, authorized sources said today:

First, because of his altogether too "obviously clear evasion of the Russian question."

Second, because of "his veiled threats against Japanese expansionist intentions."

Beyond that, they said, there was nothing new and Hull merely trod the path of President Roosevelt.

To a question whether renewed diplomatic activity had set in between Madrid and Berlin, these sources replied that diplomatic activity between the two friendly nations had never changed "as regards its intensiveness and its friendly character."

Naval Committee Approves Request

909 Millions' Expenditure for Small Ships Is Viewed as Timely

Washington, Jan. 16 (P)—The House naval committee gave prompt and unanimous approval today to an urgent navy request for authority to spend $909,000,000 for 400 relatively small new ships for the navy and for a vast expansion of shipbuilding and ordnance plants.

The action brought to $1,209,000,000 the naval outlays which the committee has recommended in less than 24 hours. Approved yesterday was a $300,000,000 program for strengthening the fleet's defenses against dive bombers and other aerial attacks.

No funds were carried in the legislation but the navy announced it would seek a large part of the money soon via a supplemental appropriation bill.

The 400 new ships, to cost approximately $465,000,000, would consist chiefly of subchasers, seagoing escort vessels, minesweepers and torpedo boats.

The navy already has signified its intention of asking funds for 280 of them. The latter include 36 escort vessels—165-foot seagoing craft which could be used for trans-oceanic convoy patrol—30 subchasers; 24 torpedo boats and 190 minesweepers. They would cost a total of $310,460,000 fully equipped.

British Navy Is Sole U. S. Safeguard

Secretary of War Makes Statement in Reply to Queries Advanced by Fish

Envoy to Speak

Joseph P. Kennedy Is to Testify Before House Group

Washington, Jan. 16 (P)—Secretary Stimson declared today that "I think we are in very great danger of an invasion by air in the contingency that the British navy should be destroyed or surrendered."

The war department chief made this statement to the House foreign affairs committee in response to an inquiry by Representative Fish (R., N. Y.).

Stimson previously had endorsed President Roosevelt's bill for lend-lease aid to Britain.

Fish started the questioning by asking whether the secretary thought that, with this country's naval strength, any foreign nation could invade our shores.

"Not now, probably not," Stimson replied slowly.

"Any time this year?" Fish pressed.

"I wouldn't dare say any time this year."

Fish then raised the question whether the United States army could repel a force of 50,000 troops should they landed.

"I think they probably could, if the gentleman means a land invasion," Stimson responded, adding that he thought that airforces would accompany an attempted invasion by infantry.

"Is there any airplane built which could span the Atlantic, drop bombs here and return across the Atlantic?" Fish inquired.

"Probably not the width of the Atlantic," Stimson said, "but they are rapidly developing in that direction and there are many bases short of the full width of the Atlantic."

Question of Bases
Asked by Fish what bases he had in mind, Stimson said: "Newfoundland would be a base within easy range of all of our New England coast. North Canada would be within easy range of the New England coast."

"Does the secretary believe," Fish continued, "that our navy would remain locked up in our harbors if any such invasion were attempted?"

"No," said Stimson, "but where is our navy now? (Most of the big ships of the navy are presently based in the Pacific.)"

Fish then inquired whether there was "fear of invasion," and the secretary replied that there was danger of an air invasion if the British fleet were destroyed or otherwise rendered ineffective for this country's protection.

He took the stand today after Treasury Secretary Morgenthau declared yesterday that England's war orders have virtually been halted by a lack of ready cash.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Joseph P. Kennedy, retired ambassador to London, would testify before the House committee next Tuesday. Kennedy was an early morning visitor at both the White House and state department today. Opponents of the lease-lend bill have claimed he would support the committee that Congress be urged to aid $60,000,000 construction of 3,200 miles of defense highways.

Much More Acute
The present situation with regard to production of munitions, Stimson said, is "much more acute" than was that of 1917. At that time, he said, "the munitions factories and supplies of Great Britain were so abundant that they were able to supply, and did supply to us, the great bulk of the weapons which we then needed."

Today, Stimson said, "instead of being assisted by other nations in obtaining the weapons for our own defense, we are obliged to prepare our defense in consideration of their needs."

He gave this description of the program which the lease-lend bill would authorize the President to undertake:

"It is the essence of the President's plan, as I understand it that the United States shall become virtually the sole purchasing unit for war materials to be ordered from the manufacturers of this country; that there will thus be (Continued on Page 20)

Bailey Rules Out Milk Referendum In New York Area

in effect no longer effectuated the policy of the marketing agreements act.

The agricultural department announced shortly after the justice handed down his decision that plans for the referendum on January 21 had been cancelled.

Wickard, the justice, added, stated he would suspend the order if the amendments were not approved because that was the policy of the department.

"The stated grounds in my opinion," the justice said, "are not in the statute."

Government attorneys went into conference immediately to decide whether to appeal to the Court of Appeals. In response to a question from John S. L. Yost, assistant to the attorney general, Justice Bailey said he did not see how the plan of the referendum could be changed in time to go ahead with the balloting next Tuesday as scheduled by the agriculture department.

The justice said that in stating that the order would be suspended if the amendments were not approved in the second referendum, the secretary had "undertaken to drag the voters into action."

"To attempt to coerce the voters by threats," he said, "is to my mind an act capricious and arbitrary."

The justice said that he did not hold it was necessary for the secretary to conduct hearings before suspending the order but that under the statute the suspension must be based on a finding that the order obstructed and no longer tended to effectuate the policy of the act and not merely be based on department policy.

In-door Pastime

Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—A Tulsa savings and loan association recently installed a new door of remarkably clear glass. It was all glass, with a handle but no frame upon it. Now there are four round spots on the door, painted in a geometrical design. The reason? "Every once in awhile someone would try to walk right through the glass, not even seeing that there was a door," reports R'Cella Shields, receptionist who sits just inside the building. "Several even came in, transacted their business and then tried to walk right through the glass on the way out. After these heads were bumped, we decided to use the spots to attract people's attention."

Methodist Bishop Dies in Nashville

Horace Mellard DuBose, 82 Served Nearly 60 Years in Southern Branch

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 16 (AP)—Horace Mellard DuBose, 82, retired Bishop of the Southern Methodist Church, died here last night.

A gifted writer, able administrator and deep student of Biblical history, Bishop Horace Mellard DuBose served the Methodist Episcopal Church South for nearly three score years.

For two-thirds of that time he chiefly was a contributor to and editor of church publications, but he served pastorates in Mississippi, Texas, California and Georgia before he was elected bishop in 1918. First stationed in Berkeley, Calif., with the entire Pacific coast as his diocese, he returned in 1924 to his native south land to take charge of the Holston, Memphis and Tennessee conferences with headquarters at Nashville.

His editorial work saw him in charge of the Pacific Methodist Advocate, 1890-94; secretary of the Epworth League and editor of the Epworth Era, 1898-1910, and editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review at Nashville, 1915-18.

He was an ardent supporter of prohibition and was executive chairman of the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia, 1913-1915. As an individual, not as a churchman, he opposed the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith for the presidency in 1928 and in 1932, anent the prohibition repeal sentiment of that year said in a speech at Memphis:

"If the Angel Gabriel should come down and tell me that he has changed his mind on prohibition and wanted it re-submitted, I would not follow him."

Bishop DuBose was a member of the unification committee appointed in 1916 to work out a basis for reuniting the Methodist churches, north and south. In 1921 he was a commissioner to the Methodist ecumenical conference in London.

His interest in archaeology was such that it made that subject his chief avocation. He did considerable research work on prehistoric races in southwestern states and Mexico and in 1926 was associated with Dr. Ernest Sellin of the University of Berlin in excavations at the site of Shechem in Palestine. They uncovered traces of five civilizations and tried to discover the mummy and tomb of Joseph.

In his seventieth year he said he looked forward to his retirement in 1934 because he hoped he then would have opportunity to return to Palestine. The idea that he might be able to discover Joseph's tomb and other proofs of Biblical history filled him with enthusiasm.

He was born November 7, 1858, in Choctaw county, Alabama, but most of his youth was spent in Waynesboro, Miss., where his father, a pre-war planter, had become a merchant. He attended Waynesboro Academy for two years but the rest of his education came from tutors. He was licensed to preach in 1876 and ordained in 1879.

His writings ranged from learned treatises on theology to adventure stories for boys the latter while he was secretary of the Epworth League. He conducted a column for the Memphis Commercial Appeal for many years.

"I also wrote some poetry," he once remarked, "although I don't pride myself on that."

"The Bible and the Ages," published in 1930, was distributed widely in America and England and was translated into German.

Bishop DuBose was married twice. His first wife was Rosa Chaney, daughter of an Arkansas planter. They were wed in 1881 and their daughter became the wife of the Rev. K. P. Barton.

The second Mrs. DuBose was Gertrude Amis of North Carolina. Their children were Mrs. B. F. McGinnis, L. V. DuBose and E. M. DuBose of Nashville; Robert F. DuBose, and Horace M. DuBose, Jr., an attorney of Winston-Salem, N. C.

String-Saving Law
Copenhagen (AP)—Danish farmers now are required to gather all binding twine from their sheaves of grain and turn it over to spinning factories before getting next year's supply. The twine has been cut off by the blockade, and good substitutes are scarce. The old string can be reworked.

Berlin, Germany (AP)—Dr. Friedrich Syrup, state secretary of the German labor ministry, reports that 1,100,000 foreigners, in addition to 1,000,000 prisoners of war, are employed in Germany. When the war broke out there were 63,000 unemployed persons in Germany as against 32,000 now. Of the latter figure, fewer than 10 per cent would be able to work, Dr. Syrup says.

Japan Says U. S. Should Move Navy

United States gives the impression it assumes an attitude of raising trouble where there is no cause in the face of a series of peaceful statements from responsible Japanese," including Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka.

Simultaneously the newspaper Kakumun reported that a group of active and retired senior generals urged War Minister Eiki Tojo at a meeting last night to "leave nothing undone to enable the nation to carry through the new tense phase of the China affair."

The meeting followed by 48 hours a conference between Premier Prince Fumimaro Koyama and high military officials which the press said was prompted by "the increasing delicacy of United States-Japanese relations."

Newspapers accused Great Britain of instigating the current border fighting between French Indo-China and Thailand while seeking an economic rapprochement with Indo-China.

"It should be borne in mind," commented the newspaper Hochi, "that the tricky hand of the United States is pulling the strings behind the blind action of Britain."

Keystone of Program

The press generally declared Indo-China was the keystone of the Japanese southward program and Yomiuri advised the government to "make a courageous, bold advance because Japan already has been besieged by the influence of Britain and America."

It mentioned The Netherlands East Indies as another spot where "peaceful negotiations" might fail because of British-American political and economic control.

At home, Asahi reported the birth rate was declining and the death rate increasing and that in an effort to reverse this trend a population-encouragement plan was ready for presentation to the cabinet.

Asahi said the cabinet planning board proposed a four-point program to foster earlier and more prolific marriages. One measure, the paper said, would be a tax on bachelors, proceeds from which would be used to pay bonuses to large families. The present marriage age for men averages 28 and women 22.

Other points include increased medical attention for infants and priority rights to limited medical supplies for them; development of a land program for encouragement of the agricultural population; and establishment of a population bureau under the welfare ministry.

Domestic Japanese news agency reported the agriculture ministry was encouraging goat raising to offset the shortage of cow milk, which now is distributed mostly to babies and invalids.

Tiffany Glass Curtain

The million-dollar Tiffany glass curtain is in the Palace of Fine Arts at Mexico City and is the only one of its kind in the world. Composed of thousands of pieces of varicolored glass, the novel lighting arrangement reveals the snow-crowned volcanoes of Popocatepetl and Ixtaccihuatl at sunrise, midday and sunset.

Colored Wall Surfacing

As some people have many virtues which you never guess until you know them well, so a handsome, beautifully colored wall surfacing has appeared with a finish that is adaptable for many types of rooms. This surfacing insulates and "quiets" a room, as well as decorates it, and is excellent for new or modernizing work.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Almost 3,760,000 tons of refractory materials (heat-resisting bricks and cements for lining furnaces, etc.) are required annually. American refractory producers supply the steel industry with about 97 per cent of that total. About 2 per cent is obtained by the steel producers from their own properties, while the remaining 1 per cent represents the purchase of imported chrome ore refractories, mostly from Africa, Cuba and Greece.

Dean Drury's Talk

Dean Drury expressed thanks for the very comprehensive reports which had been read. He commended the doctors on the fine spirit in which opinions have been exchanged at staff meetings and urged them to continue in this same spirit of friendliness.

"The hospital has had a most successful year as evident from the reports just read," Dean Drury remarked. "There is no question but that the staff members have contributed in a very large degree to this success. You have created a reputation for the hospital and a name for yourselves. People want to come here and they want to be treated by you. We find ourselves in the condition where the physical means are not adequate. Since this need has been created primarily by the doctors, the question of physical expansion should be of vital importance to you, and any plan that might be advanced to correct this situation should meet with your wholehearted support. You are in a position as doctors, to acquaint your patients and friends with this urgent need of the hospital. Some will not be in a position to contribute financially, but the majority will be able to do so. No further plan has been made as yet, but the question is receiving serious consideration."

In conclusion Dean Drury thanked the doctors for their splendid cooperation in helping so nobly to make Benedictine Hospital stand out, and urged them to continue in this spirit of loyalty.

Secretary's Report

Very Rev. Dean, Sisters and Staff members:

For several years it has been the custom for the Secretary to give a rather brief summary of the activities of both the Hospital and the Staff; this has been found necessary because the heads of the various departments have also rendered a report and if we have too much repetition the reports soon become very boring and tiresome, therefore I will endeavor just to touch on the high-lights and to refresh your memory.

Recently you all have received a small booklet which contains the By-Laws, Rules and Regulations for the Medical Staff of the Benedictine Hospital. I particularly would like to call your attention to Article VII, section 4 which refers specifically to "attendance at meetings." In this section, a staff member is required to be present to discuss his charts, and if he is not present he is liable to "forfeit his membership on the staff." Also, under the Rules and Regulations, in section 3, reference is made to "all free patients...shall be assigned to service."

Your Chief-of-Staff is endeavoring to develop a service in all of the departments of the Hospital so that those who are the heads of these departments can now be assured that the day is not far distant when to have a service is something more than a figure of speech. If we can believe and visualize that "service comes before self" the standard of the Hospital is bound to be raised to a higher plane. We can only accomplish this by a sincere cooperation of the entire membership; personal desires and aspirations must be subordinate to this thought.

You have been greatly gratified to know that the Hospital has met the qualifications and has been approved by the American Medical Association and also by the American College of Surgeons for intern residence. Without your loyalty and cooperation this would not have come to pass. Our residents are an essential part of the Hospital and we must make every effort to keep on the approved list. We greatly appreciate the interest they have shown in the welfare of our patients.

The number of autopsies and consultations have fallen off from our expectations this year and we must endeavor to increase the percentage in 1941.

A library committee should be appointed to go over the books and magazines now on our shelves; the old ones should be discarded and replaced by more up-to-date literature.

During informal talks in the Staff Room the question of increasing the number of nurses in the operating room has been suggested, quite frequently a trained student nurse when needed, or a trained student (surg.) nurse can be of far greater assistance at a transfusion on the floors, in the Obstetrical Department or in the Cystoscopy room, than a floor nurse who is hurriedly sent for to help in an emergency. We realize that the Hospital cannot accommodate all the nurses it would like to have in its training school and this is not meant as a criticism but more as a suggestion where additional help could be given. The Staff deeply appreciates the loyalty and the willingness of the nurses and the splendid cooperation of the training school of the Hospital. I particularly under the capable direction of Sister Callista and her staff of instructors.

May I, on behalf of the staff, express our thanks to the X-ray Department, Pathological Laboratory and the Surgical Department, for their many kindnesses and enthusiasm in helping us to make correct diagnoses.

To Sister Berenice, May I extend the continued loyalty and cooperation of the entire staff for the coming year and for as many years as she may choose to remain with us.

And lastly, to Dean Drury, a man who has the courage of his convictions, one who has endeavored himself to us in the short time he has been amongst us and who, on many occasions has given us of his counsel, to him, we are deeply grateful.

Respectfully submitted,
C. L. Gannon, M. D.
Secretary to the Medical Staff

Dr. Bush Talks

Dr. William S. Bush spoke in part as follows:

Another year is concluded and as therefore the staff maintains its spirit of friendliness and cooperation. This simple factor has contributed most in bringing about an increase in standardization—standardization as to technique both within and without departments; in operative procedures, diagnostic procedures, hospital setting and regime. This is a trend toward the ideal Dr. Ravdin stresses: "Laboratory investigation which has been carefully planned and carefully executed can be repeated by the same methods, by the same controls, in the same or other laboratories. We have a right to demand similar criteria for clinical investigation. There is no need to separate the clinician and the investigator; there is every reason to bring them together. In this sense every well qualified practitioner should be inquisitive, and if he is, he will find much to observe and investigate. If he develops the scientific method of accurate observation, he will correlate his findings and be more likely to draw sound deductions."

We have reached our hospital capacity. Every business man can tell you the chaos that occurs from over-capacity, with its multi-form stumbling blocks of increased overhead. This is doubly important in our instance with an enterprise that is basically non-profit. If we increase our hospital capacity, it will naturally follow that the School of Nursing must be enlarged accordingly. We are not by-standers in this matter, but we have a very real equity here. It is our workshop. We have not been evading this issue in the past, but the present conditions have forced us to consider the expansion of hospital facilities in the very near future. Although businessmen tell us that the present time is inopportune for launching a project of this nature, we feel that with the concerted effort of every member of the staff, we shall accomplish our objective.

In the final analysis of the whole situation, this effort and contact will mean sacrifice on our part, severally and individually.

Report of Obstetrical and Gynecological department was given as follows:

Although the management has been kind enough to grant me a nominal position as head of the Obstetrical and Gynecological Department of the Benedictine Hospital until now I have been hesitant to report on developments until recognizable results could be shown.

There has been substantial increase in the number of patients cared for, but what is more important the improved results in general are noteworthy. Records and percentages are quite within desired limits of morbidity—both maternal and foetal, methods and technique are scientific; handling of patients, nursing care and general efficiency are encouraging. These indications are gratifying and there appears to have been a marked united effort of all concerned toward better Obstetrics. There has been a general up-trend throughout the country in maternal care and this Hospital has kept pace with it.

Acknowledgement and a word of appreciation should be expressed to the Sisters for their ready and understanding response to suggested improvements, to the Visiting Staff for its encouragement offered and to the Laboratory for its efficient and dependable aid.

To continue further in the development of this department requires in the main more space. Patients are frequently forced to occupy rooms on the second floor and isolation is not as complete as is desired. Waiting rooms for immediate relatives cannot be afforded.

The basic features of a modern Obstetrical Division have been accomplished and it now remains to await acquisition of an obstetrical wing or additional doubled floor space to be able to meet the demands that this hospital needs for adequate maternal care.

A provisional Obstetrical Service will comprise four members for the year. Drs. M. Diacovo and B. Dutto because of their evident interest in this work have been appointed Acting Assistant Obstetricians and will alternate on a rotating three months service with Dr. T. Crowley and myself. It is planned to carry out some investigations which may eventually be of interest.

Gynecological Division
As for the Gynecological Division there is still too much discussion of the work among some of the general surgical and medical minds for it to function as a service although there is a noticeable effort among most of the Acting Staff to support and differentiate this phase of the profession. As soon as this fact is appreciated then there will result more reciprocal action and mutual benefit.

This department wishes to mention two progressive and highly successful additions to the Hospital's activities sponsored and urged by Dr. William S. Bush as Chief of Staff early last winter, namely: (1) the institution of the weekly Clinical Conferences and (2) the maintenance of the blood bank. Every division of the Hospital has profited thereby.

Dr. E. F. Shea in a highly efficient and enjoyable manner has conducted these meetings on Tuesdays at 12 o'clock and their popularity has far exceeded original expectations. This is also proven by the welcome attendance of various active members of the Kingston Hospital staff.

The Blood Bank is now an important and integral factor in the general therapy of the Hospital and this department is an active participant in its functioning.

A vital and necessary phase of these Conferences, the safe operation of the Bank and the exacting procedures of the Laboratory is under the scientific guidance of Dr. J. S. Taylor, director laboratories whose progressive influence has not as yet been sufficiently evaluated.

It is a relief to the operator as well as a boon to the patient to have adequate modern anesthesia available. Dr. Eugene Galvin is to be commended on his scrupulous care and interest in this important department.

Dean Drury
The feeling of dependable cooperation and fair appraisal of problems which Dean Drury as president of the Institution has created among the Staff Members promises a healthy and vigorous future.

Conclusion
I personally wish to compliment the work of Drs. H. Thompson and J. Vacca for their professional interest and cooperation as resident doctors.

The year of 1940 at the Benedictine Hospital has indeed been the most stimulating of any since my becoming a member of its staff.

Signed
FRANCIS E. O'CONNOR.

156th Chaplain Reports Soldiers In Good Condition

Father Guinan Says Local Soldiers Are Satisfied; Tells of Army Life at Rotary Club

Local soldiers attached to the 156th Field Artillery stationed at Fort Dix are in excellent physical condition, are well cared for and are satisfied with conditions at the Fort, according to the Rev. William J. Guinan, chaplain of the 156th. The soldiers, the chaplain explained, have not all the comforts and luxuries of those in civilian life, but they realize the purpose for which they are serving and they are doing a wonderful job.

The report on the local soldiers in Fort Dix was given at the Rotary Club luncheon held Wednesday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Father Guinan was introduced by Mayor C. J. Heiselman, who met the chaplain while visiting Kingston soldiers at Fort Dix.

Chaplain Guinan also brought a message from Colonel McViker, commanding officer of the regiment, to the residents of Kingston. The colonel directed the chaplain to report that Kingston and Ulster county soldiers of the 156th Field Artillery were a credit to the army and the colonel expressed the hope that the citizens of Kingston and Ulster county felt as proud of their soldiers as the commanding officer.

An expression of appreciation was also conveyed from Kingston soldiers for the fund of $75 which was recently sent to them. This money will be used for athletic equipment. Mayor Heiselman in his introductory remarks also thanked those who contributed to this fund and expressed the desire that a total of about $200 be raised. Anyone desiring to donate to this fund may do so at any time.

In his description of camp life, Chaplain Guinan told of the early hardships the members of the 156th had undergone. Coming from a vigorous three-weeks' campaign at Plattsburg where in the intense cold they maneuvered from 5 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night, these young men were sent to Fort Dix, which lacked adequate facilities at the start. A number of the seasoned soldiers were rejected when the batteries were inducted into federal service because of the age limit and the strict physical requirements necessitating the enlisting of many recruits to bring the batteries up to strength. These recruits who never had experience in the rigors of camp life found it very difficult and at times were discouraged. Added to this was their assignment in a camp that was undergoing completion. Tents had to be erected, water drains dug, barracks constructed, etc. Altogether it was a tough task for the recruits. But as the camp was nearing completion these young men soon found themselves.

Despite the fact that the training is exacting and entails physical endurance, the soldiers are in good physical condition. All have reported gains in weight ranging from five to 20 pounds.

The food is very good and they all have hearty appetites. Medical attention is furnished by a large staff, hygienic regulations are

Mumps Epidemic Shows Many Cases

Total School Cases 669; Others Not Reported

The epidemic of mumps in Kingston has so far claimed a total of 669 cases among the pupils of the public and private schools of the city since the opening of the fall term in September. This number does not include the large number of adults who have been stricken.

The figures on the total number of cases of mumps was compiled by the school authorities from the reports of the school physician and school nurses.

As mumps is not a reportable disease Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said today that the health department had no record of the number of cases in the city.

The epidemic is not confined to school children, however, as there are many adults in the city who have been stricken with the mumps.

The tail of Cunningham's comet is estimated to be 1,600,000 miles long.

mandatory and recreation is furnished. Entertainment is also provided including the hostesses' cottages. The chaplain declared that some newspaper articles about these cottages were entirely erroneous.

Religious services are afforded by ministers, rabbis and priests and an endeavor is made to have each soldier attend a service each Sunday.

The work of the chaplain, the speaker stated, was to hear the complaints of the soldiers and make recommendations to the commanding officer. Any soldier who had a grievance could make it in strict confidence. The purpose of this arrangement was to keep up the morale of the soldiers and to iron out small matters that needed adjustment.

Father Guinan who had been stationed in St. Mary's Church, Newburgh, said that a soldier's life was not easy and many sacrifices had to be made, but none was known to be seeking discharge. On the contrary, he stated, those who were discharged for physical disability felt badly about leaving the army. It is this spirit that is of paramount importance and it can be maintained if those back home will let the boys know that they are with them 100 per cent. To hear from the home town was a great source of inspiration, the chaplain asserted.

The chaplain also brought word from the officers of the local units of the 156th. Major Behrens, Captain Clayton, Captain Steuding, Captain Combs and the other officers sent their greetings through the chaplain.

In closing Father Guinan said the soldiers are ready to meet the challenge of Hitler that democracies are doomed. They are ready and eager to defend the principles of government that our forefathers handed down to us to enjoy. They feel that the sacrifices they are making in order to be properly prepared to safeguard these liberties of a free country will not be in vain.

Board of Managers Of Home for Aged Report Submitted

The following is the annual report of the board of managers of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county, for 1940:

Madam President and members of the Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county, it is a pleasure to present this report of the Home for the year 1940.

There have been nine regular meetings of the board held on the last Thursday of the month with an average attendance of 10 members.

The Home is filled to capacity with 35 in family. Two deaths occurred during the year and two others were admitted. There have been 11 applicants for admission this year, making a total of 26 on the waiting list; seven more than in January 1940.

Religious services have been held regularly each Sunday. Easter, they had three services, one of which was communion. This board is grateful to the clergymen and all who assist in bringing these services to the Home family.

On June 12 the annual fair and card party was held at the Home. Though not as well attended as in former years, it was a happy occasion and added to the treasury.

The long planned and hoped for elevator was installed during the summer, thus making step-climbing for those to whom it was a hardship, no longer necessary.

The purchasing committee has been busier than usual this year. So many things were worn out and had to be replaced. New tables in the dining room, shades downstairs, chairs in the dining room, a bed, mattress, rugs, dishes, bed and table linen were purchased.

The report of the inspection by the State Department of Social Welfare was very flattering in its praise of the cleanliness and good management found in the Home. Our thanks are extended to the doctors who have responded so willingly to all calls; to the organizations and individuals who have brought entertainment and pleasure to the Home family, to the press for their ready cooperation in publicity and to the loyal friends who send gifts and donations from month to month.

The passing of 1940 leaves a challenge if this Home is to meet all the needs for which it was intended; a challenge, first to this board for more faithful attendance and more active cooperation—a challenge too, for the many friends we know the Home has throughout the county, for renewed interest and assistance. Accepting this, we can go to finer service than ever before.

Respectfully submitted,

MAE E. MATTHEWS.

Naval Committee Approves Request

Most yards now are on a 48-hour basis, with workmen paid time-and-one-half for overtime past 40 hours. The change would be effected by putting an additional shift.

Joint training maneuvers involving army units as well as the Atlantic fleet will start January 21 in the Caribbean area, Knox said. Admiral Robinson disclosed that 52 trawlers and dredgers have been taken over by the navy for conversion into mine-sweepers. The conversion cost was heavy, he said, but was undertaken in the interest of speed.

The House naval committee unanimously approved the navy's request for $300,000,000 to protect fleet units from overhead bomb attacks, by installing additional anti-aircraft guns and deck armor to protect personnel from bombs splinters.

YESTERDAY, David and Peter and Polly just have repaired the swimming pool at the old inn. David's aunt left him when she died. Nobody has ever been able to make the inn pay, and it is vacant now. But Polly thinks they can at least have some fun out of it. Now Margo Powers, who is glamorous personified and the daughter of David's boss, is on her way to the inn. She has decided that she wants David—Polly or no Polly.

Chapter 14 Four's A Crowd

"Did you bring your suit, Polly?" David wanted to know.
"Certainly I did. You don't think I'd let you two do all the swimming, do you?"
David laughed, and watched Peter getting a bundle out of the car.
"I hope my trunks aren't full of moth-holes," he said.
"There were a few in them," said Polly.
"How do you know?"
"Peter brought them over to me to mend."
"Well, I give up!" said David. "And Peter acting as though he had just discovered the trunks in my closet!"
Polly was also watching Peter now. She turned to David.
"How can he swim with that awful brace on?" she asked.
"He can't," said David.
"You know he can't walk without it, though. Remember how he fell that day in the pool?"
You told me about it, David, and—how's he going to walk down to the pool after he gets his swimming trunks on?"
"I'll carry him."
"He won't like that. It'll make him feel so helpless."
"It's the only way, Sweetness. Don't worry, we'll make a sort of game out of it."
"Oh, David, you are a dear!" said Polly. Then she called out to Peter: "Don't forget the towels!"
"No," said Peter. "I got 'em." He came hurrying back to them as fast as his lameness would permit. "We can all go inside the hotel and dress, can't we?"
"Yes," said David. "Polly, you take the inn parlor, and Peter and I'll take the dining room."
"Why not use two of the bedrooms, Cousin David?" Peter asked.
"They're pretty dusty. I'm afraid. Don't forget, all the cleaning we've done has been confined to the larger rooms downstairs."
The trio went on into the big empty house.

In the lobby David glanced at an ornate fountain that was built in the center of the room, and shrugged.
"Uncle Fred sure had high-falutin' ideas," he said. "Imagine putting a thing like that in the middle of the lobby."
"Why not?" said Polly. "It must look lovely when the water is turned on—especially when the colored electric lights are in the middle of the lobby."
"Well, go on with your swimming and diving," Margo urged. "I'll have a smoke and watch you."
Polly turned, did a neat dive, and swam out. David followed her.
"I'll run in and dress now," Polly said. "You and Peter have another lesson. It takes me longer to dress than it does you two."
She ran across the grounds, through the lengthening afternoon shadows, and into the inn. Margo watched her—Cute little figure, she thought. But probably the sort of girl who would soon become plumpish and matronly. Not at all the sort of girl David would marry. She would neglect him just as soon as she had a baby or two.

She'd give all her attention to her children, and practically forget that her husband existed. David Wiley ought to have the kind of wife who would appreciate him all the time, who wouldn't even let mother-love keep her from always being a sweetheart to him—
She dropped down cross-legged near the edge of the pool. "Let me see you do that swan dive again, David," she said. "I want to learn how to do it myself."
"It'll be easier to do it," said David, "when I get a diving board fixed up."
"You do it all right without a diving board," said Peter loyally. "Nobody ever does it any better. I've seen Weismuller or—that fellow, Buster Crabbe."
"You're prejudiced, Peter," said David.
He took his place not far from Margo. He poised for a moment, his toes curled over the cement, and then once again sprang into space. The dive was perfect, more graceful even than the first one. "I'll never be able to do it that well," said Margo.
"You beautiful—beautiful—beautiful man, you, she thought. You ought to have an audience, other swimmers and divers, women to acclaim over your magnificent body, men to envy your diving and swimming ability. You oughtn't to be diving just for my benefit. You should be where I could show you off—be proud of you."
"Come along now, Peter," David said when he had swum to the shallow end of the pool. "We must get dressed. You mustn't get chilled."
"This water sure feels good," Peter said. He took hold of David's hand. "I'm going to keep on trying until I'm as good a swimmer as you and Polly."

For Granted
Austin, Tex. (AP)—Thirty-three Texas counties failed to file their returns in the November election, leaving the ballots of 90,000 persons officially unrecorded. There is no penalty provided by law. Secretary of State M. O. Flowers has suggested remedial legislation.

The world war troopship Mount Vernon, once the pride of the German merchant marine when she was the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, is being scrapped at Baltimore.

Peter laughed gaily. "Go on, now, Cousin David, and dive," he said. "I want to see you dive."
"Okay," said David, "but you stay away from the deep water." He swung himself up to the pool's edge, and stood poised there. "I'll fix a diving board one of these days," he said. Then, he sprang into the air, and did a perfect swan dive, hitting the water with scarcely a splash. "How was it?" he called out to Peter, when he came to the surface.
"Gee, you were swell!" said Peter. "You looked just like Weismuller."
"Exactly!" said a voice that wasn't Polly's.
David looked up. Margo Powers was standing close by watching him.

"Hello, Margo!" he called.
"Hello, yourself!" said Margo. "I'm sorry I didn't bring along my swimming things."
David again swung himself out of the water.
"Hello, Peter—Hello, Polly!" Margo said, but her eyes were on David.
He was all that she had imagined he would be in swimming trunks. Straight, brown legs; broad shoulders; golden-brown torso. And again she thought of him on Long Island's beaches, gay and happy at resorts she had visited. What a shame for such a perfect specimen of young manhood to be wasted on an isolated swimming pool.

"Do you swim?" Peter asked, eyeing Margo's slacks and stock- ings.
"Of course!" Margo laughed. "Gee!" said Peter.
Polly laughed and said: "Peter probably thinks you're far too ornamental to get wet!"
"Do you know what I think I'll do?" Margo said suddenly. "I'll think I'll race right back to town and get my bathing suit!"
"But it's getting pretty late," said David. "Maybe you'd better wait until another time."
"But, David, I do so want to swim!"

Party's End
POLLY shook out her hair. "I've got to get back to town now," she said. "You can drive me in if you don't mind. Then you three can have a swim in the sunset."
"Oh, that will be fun!" said Margo.
"You mean you're going to leave us now, Polly?" Peter asked.
"Yes, Peter, honey. I've got to get Aunt Susan's supper, you know."
"Then I'll go too," said Peter.
Margo looked at David. "It looks," she said, "as though we're to swim alone."
"I think we'd better all drive back to town," David said. "We can make a date for a swim some other time."
"Very well," said Margo, disappointed. "I do hope I haven't broken up your party."
"Of course you haven't," David assured. "We weren't going to stay late anyway."
"Well, go on with your swimming and diving," Margo urged. "I'll have a smoke and watch you."

Polly turned, did a neat dive, and swam out. David followed her.
"I'll run in and dress now," Polly said. "You and Peter have another lesson. It takes me longer to dress than it does you two."

Refugee Terriers
San Diego, Calif. (AP)—The same ship which brought a batch of refugee British children brought six miniature Kerry blue terriers, whose owner sought a bombproof home for them. Mrs. Julia Dowell, their "guardian," believes they are the only example of the breed in America.

Aerial photography in Peru has revealed mysterious markings on the earth, invisible from ground level, which are attributed to an ancient race.

Smile and Work
To smile and work, and work and smile.
To smile twelve times a day.
Will take you over the stubborn mile.
As you journey on your way;
To live, to love, to be sincere;
To strive, yet feel at peace.
Will drive away all kinds of fear.
Your troubles soon will cease.

To know that nothing matters much.
If we but do our best.
To look upon all trials such.
As a challenge or a test;
To learn how little we do need.
After all on this old earth.
And then to stop this silly speed.
And spend more time in mirth.

To do our tasks with joy,
Take courage, come what may,
To rise above things which annoy,
To smile, and work, and play,
To make of life a melody,
To try and keep in tune;
When we shall ever happy be,
Bright as the sun in June.

Army Recruits Homing Pigeons

Hundreds to Be Added
Under Defense Plans to 2,000 Now in Service.

WASHINGTON.—Under defense plans the army signal corps will add hundreds of homing pigeons to the 2,000 now in the service.

Close to a half million served the opposing armed forces during the last World war.

The pigeons, capable of flying up to 600 miles a day at an average speed of 35 miles per hour, are used to carry to headquarters messages from combat and observation aircraft, tanks and units cut off from ordinary channels of communication. The messages are placed in a capsule attached to a band on the bird's leg.

Among the 20,000 pigeons in the United States army during the last war were many whose deeds of valor equaled those of any soldier.

Tributes to Heroic Birds.

The Signal Corps Manual for pigeon-handlers pictures two of them with these tributes:

"The Mocker," with one eye destroyed by a piece of shrapnel and his head a welter of clotted blood, homed in from the Beaumont front (in France) early in the morning of Sept. 12, 1918. This bird carried a message of great importance which gave the location of several of the advancing heavy batteries that were doing terrible execution on American troops. The information enabled the American artillery to silence the enemy's guns within twenty minutes."

"The President Wilson," on the morning of Nov. 5, 1918, through heavy fog and with a leg shot off, arrived at his loft (on the Western Front) with an important message."

Mounted and preserved in the United States Museum of Natural History in Washington is "Cher Ami," known as the army's most famous pigeon of the World war. He was credited with carrying—with one leg shattered and a machine-gun bullet in the breast—a message that saved the "Lost Battalion."

Training Pigeons.

At Fort Monmouth, N. J., the signal corps school and training base for pigeons, is one of the bird veterans of the World war. He served with the German army 23 years ago and was captured and brought to the United States. He has attained an age seldom equaled by his kind.

Mobile lofts, each housing 60 birds, are being assigned to various army posts.

Army records disclosed that the first extensive use of the birds by American troops in battle was during the Aisne-Marne offensive in the World war between August 29 and September 11, 1918. A mobile loft operating near the line received 78 important messages and 148 test messages.

Of the 72 birds used from this loft not one failed to return. However, casualties in other engagements were not uncommon.

At the beginning of the last World war Germany operated an efficient and well-established pigeon service in all arms. The allies developed similar service early in the war and the German army resorted to trained hawks—in addition to gunfire—to destroy the enemy's pigeons.

Maryland Grist Mill Has Operated for 270 Years

DENTON, MD.—A grist mill that turned out flour for Washington's army during the Revolution is in daily use here in what tradition says is its 270th year of operation.

The water-powered mill, said to be unchanged since Colonial days, is operated by F. S. Langrell. The frame building, large and roomy, is known as James Murray's mill, on the banks of the mill stream, Hunting creek.

When Maj. Nathaniel Potter of Potter's Landing near here was commissioned to buy flour for General Washington's troops, he went to Murray, who ground corn meal for the soldiers.

Grandma's Stereoscope to Stage Genuine Comeback

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Grandmother's old stereoscope will be back into use again soon, with the age of the third dimension in illustration about to write its page in history.

Already at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology students are studying descriptive geometry through a modernized version of the stereoscope.

It is predicted that in the home, too, it will soon be "standard equipment." And even in the movies they're flirting with the idea of stereoptics.

Match Is Believed Cause Of This Rooster's Death

PARIS, MO.—A scorched rooster-gizzard was recently displayed here by Mrs. Longnecker.

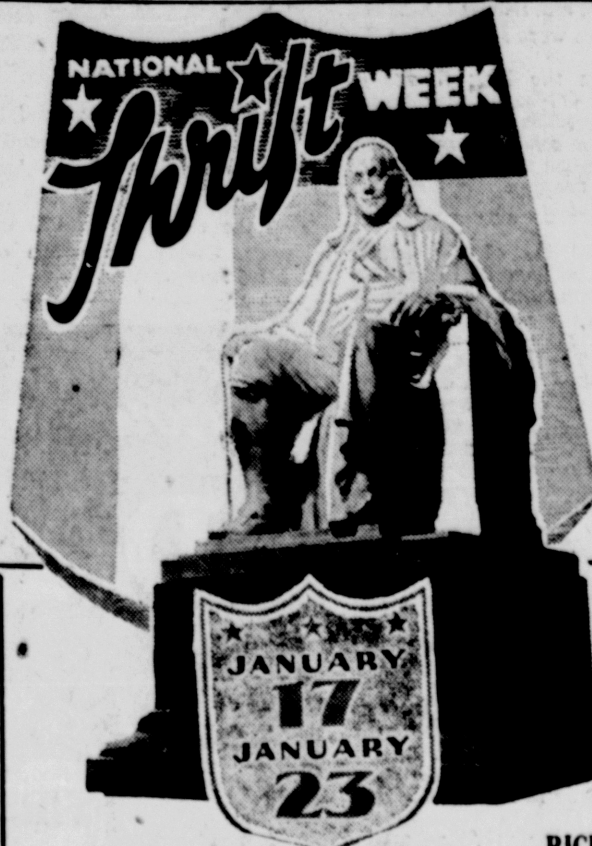

It came from a Rhode Island Red rooster which Mrs. Longnecker saw in convulsions.

Investigation revealed a burnt match and scorched places on the gizzard lining.

She believed the grit in the gizzard ignited the match.

Any Roads Through?

Sandefjord, Norway (AP)—The county of Vedfold has signed a contract with farmer Soeren Soeyland and Mrs. Soeyland to the effect that 250 fruit trees along a road across their farm are to be considered public property. Passers-by may eat what fruit they can on the spot, but none may be carried off.

and has a bachelor of science degree from St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Indiana. She comes to us highly recommended.

Sister Ancilla was appointed obstetrical supervisor after having completed a post-graduate course in obstetrics at the Brady Memorial Hospital in Albany.

The Rev. J. Carroll Helderfor, C. SS. R., of Mt. St. Alphonsus, has been appointed Sodality Moderator and the director of the Liturgical Study Club, to succeed the Rev. John Schultz.

The psychiatric affiliation has been changed from Middletown State Hospital to Central Islip Hospital. The affiliation in Pediatrics at Babies Hospital is maintained.

It was our pleasure to award the $300 Scholarship to Miss Anna Achenbach, the student having the highest average in the graduating class. This was again made possible through the cooperation and generosity of the medical staff, the Ladies Auxiliary and the Alumnae Association.

Thirty-six new books have been added to our reference library.

A new Victrola radio has been secured for the students. They have had parties, picnics and dances on various occasions. The Capping Exercises, Christmas play and party and the Senior Dance are some of the outstanding events of the year.

We are indebted to the Very Rev. Dean Drury for his wise counsel and guidance in our school problems. To the School of Nursing Committee we wish to express our thanks for their assistance in carrying out the school policies.

The assistance in our educational program, spiritual retreat and conferences given by the Very Rev. Martin Gounley, rector of Mt. St. Alphonsus, and his Rev. Conferees merits our deepest gratitude.

To our Rev. Chaplain, Father Carey, for his spiritual ministrations and the help in psychology, we are most thankful.

We are deeply grateful to all of our doctors for their cooperation and interest in our educational program and for their professional services to our ill students. Particularly we are grateful to Dr. Galvin, the school physician.

We desire to express our appreciation to the auxiliary for their continued interest in our students. The luncheon and bridge given annually to the outgoing class is an event they all look forward to.

To the Alumnae we wish to express our gratitude for their cooperation in the policies of the school and nursing service and for their interest in the students.

The ever increasing number of patients has made a heavy demand on the services of the Sister, supervisors and staff nurses, and we want to thank them for their wonderful spirit of cooperation and their efficient services.

Since we are conducting a school our educational program must go on—in spite of the increasing number of patients. We hope, therefore, that during the coming year we shall be successful in carrying out very definite plans for providing satisfactory living conditions, adequate classroom, laboratory and library facilities for our students and nursing personnel. This must be accomplished by the year.

SISTER CALLISTA, Principal

Superintendent's Report
 The superintendent gave the following report:

The Very Rev. Dean Drury, Sisters and Staff Members:

The year 1940 has given the Benedictine Hospital its highest daily average of 84 patients, also its lowest death rate, 1.9%.

The urgent need for a greater number of patient's rooms was never more evident than during the past year. The private rooms, in great demand by those patients who enter under the various hospitalization plans, consequently many of our private rooms have been converted into semi-private. This has naturally caused a shortage of private rooms which are always in demand. The two splendid legacies left to the Benedictine Hospital, one Miss Katherine Tracy of Brooklyn of $50,000 and the other by William E. Bruyn, a former resident of Bruynswick, Town of Walkkill, of $10,000 have given us a ray of hope and we are indeed grateful to our benefactors for remembering us so generously.

They will be a nucleus for the addition of a new wing and a nurses' home. Our many friends and former patients are well acquainted with our present crowded conditions. The need of a nurses' residence has been of long standing and now the increased number of patients to be cared for has made it more urgent.

The State Department of Education and the American College of Surgeons, by whom our hospital is approved, look forward to seeing adequate facilities to meet the increased demands made on the hospital. At present we are confronted with the embarrassing situation of being unable at times to accept patients, therefore the need of immediate expansion is imperative.

Recently all hospitals received a questionnaire from the government requesting information regarding the service hospitals could offer in case of an invasion. We regret that our crowded condition prevented us from offering the amount of service and hospital space we would gladly give were our hospital accommodations at present suitable for our present needs.

Men in authority in both medical and hospital fields advise us that there will be very little to worry about from government control if every citizen in America will interest himself and contribute freely toward maintenance of the institutions whose main objective is adequate preparedness to give service to the sick and injured. We know that nowhere has this advice been better observed in its fullest measure than in Kingston and surrounding territory where residents are always counted upon for their generous response. This was never more previous years. Much sewing was accomplished and nearly a hundred new members were secured for the auxiliary.

We regret the long illness of Mrs. Mark O'Meara. Her faithful attendance has been missed at meetings. The auxiliary has lost a faithful member in the passing of Mrs. C. L. Gannon and also her mother, Mrs. Ross. May their souls rest in peace.

The annual tea of the Junior Auxiliary continues to be a success. The enthusiasm and energy of the committee for the recent affair were rewarded by a splendid attendance. The Benedictine Hospital acknowledges with deep gratitude the loyalty, good will, time and energy manifested each year by the members of the auxiliary in their efforts to assist our cause.

The number of colorful rooms has been increased. This year we are indebted to John Halloran who has furnished a room in memory of his mother, Mrs. Ellen T. Halloran. This room is located on the second floor and is distinguished by its rich and striking blue furnishings. Michael Howard, uncle of Mr. Halloran has also decided to furnish a room similar to that of the Ellen T. Halloran Memorial in memory of his wife, Annie. The color scheme of both rooms has been planned by Miss Agnes Birmingham.

It has been our privilege again to have our distinguished friends, musicians of international repute, give a concert for the benefit of our hospital. For four years, Pierre Henrotte and his artist colleagues have contributed their rare talent for our cause. The response from the public was splendid and the publicity of the press was never better.

Besides the splendid legacies mentioned before we have received the following donations:

A Friend ..... $200.00

Miss Helen Tracy ..... 100.00

Kingston Daily Freeman ..... 25.00

Other Donations ..... 80.00

At this time we desire to express our gratitude to the merchants who are always generous and never refuse when approached to contribute to our cause.

We also appreciate the thoughtful remembrances of our many friends who have sent money, flowers, magazines, books, fruits and various other gifts, all of which are greatly appreciated by those who are ill.

The following additions and improvements have been made in 1940:

Large lamp for operating room.

Tiling:

First floor near reception hall.

Second floor nurses' station. Small room adjoining main kitchen. New floor in basement.

New furniture in reception hall.

New steam boiler in laundry.

Two new oil burners.

Several small sterilizers.

Steel desk for office.

New lighting system in chapel.

We are indeed proud of the excellent cooperation of our entire personnel who have not spared themselves in helping us to create a homelike atmosphere in our hospital.

News of the heart rending tragedies of the suffering millions in other countries reaches us daily and spreads a blanket of fear and distrust over the entire world. Their sorrow is ever before our eyes and pleads with us to express how deeply we feel their suffering. This we can do by prayer and a greater solicitude for the sick and unfortunate of every race and creed who enter our hospital. In our daily ministrations we must also help our patients to share in the healing touch of Christ who when He lived and walked among men came not to destroy but to save.

SISTER BERNICE, Superintendent.

A survey made in 1856 and 1857 by the American Iron Association, fore-runner of the present American Iron and Steel Institute, revealed the existence of 832 blast furnaces. Today there are only 231 blast furnaces.

GIRL'S FAMILY NOT EXPECTED TO INVITE FUTURE IN-LAWS TO STAY WITH THEM OR PUT THEM UP AT HOTEL

Such Hospitality Not Necessary Unless They Can Show It Without Effort—A Problem Regarding Presents

Inviting a daughter's future in-laws to stay with them is not necessary nor expected of her family, unless they can show this hospitality without effort. And putting them up at a hotel is quite outside of the conventional picture. But it would be easier to print than explain the other part of this same letter: "My future mother-in-law wrote me a note of welcome after John and I became engaged because it was too far for her to come here. John just tells me that his mother would like to give us our silver and wants to know the pattern I prefer, and what style of marking I like. Since this is a most generous offer, do you think I ought to write to her personally, or just relay my answer the way she sent her message—through John?"

Of course write her! And tell her how pleased you are and how generous you think she is! And since she has asked you, tell her by all means the pattern you prefer, the name of the manufacturer, and the answer about the marking, too. After all, it is much easier to buy a present when we know exactly what to get.

Inviting Guests for First Time
Dear Mrs. Post: We are a young married couple, living in a very small apartment. That is, the rooms are large but there is only a living room and a bedroom (bath and kitchen). We are expecting our first overnight visitors, another man and wife. In the interests of hospitality, I would like to know whether we are expected to give them our bedroom, or may we put them up in the living room? There is a good sized sleeping sofa in that room, of course, and a chest of drawers and ample mirrors.

Answer: Ordinarily you keep your own room. You certainly do if the visitors are your age or younger—and particularly if you told them frankly that they are to be quartered in the living room. If the visitors are either your own or your husband's parents, you might consider giving them your room since many older people do care very much about their privacy. (Not that people in their early 40's can be classed as "old-er.")

Color for the Maiden Bride
Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be improper for a young bride who has never been married to wear a light blue bride's dress and wedding veil to match, instead of white? My color is blue and since I always wear it in some shade, I would prefer it on my wedding day. But mother says color suggests a second marriage and that you have said so.

Answer: The bride who is being married for the first time may wear anything she pleases at her wedding. The prohibition is on the other side. At a second wedding, a bride may wear a white dress but not the symbols of a maiden bride, which are orange blossoms and a white veil. But you may wear blue and still have a wedding that looks like a first wedding if the blue is very pale—really in effect white with blue lights—because with that you may wear orange blossoms. If you carry flowers, they should be white ones.

In sad and loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Mary Josephine Howard, who departed this life three years ago today, January 16, 1938.

Tired of the hollow, the base, the untrue,
Mother, oh, mother, my heart calls for you.
Many a summer the grass has grown green,
Blossomed and faded our faces between,
Yet with strong yearning and passionate pain,
Long I to-night for your presence again,
Come from the silence so long and so deep,
Rock me to sleep, Mother, rock me to sleep.
Sons and Daughters.

Red Cross Speeds Greek War Relief

Despite current successes of her army, Greece's defense against the invader is being waged at a heavy cost to the Hellenic people. Cable advices from the recently opened American Red Cross headquarters at Athens described the urgent needs of the Greek Army Medical Corps in the Albanian front-line defenses, and the mounting needs for food, clothing, and medical supplies among the civilians, which in some regions, notably Corfu, have been subjected to heavy bombings.

At the outset of the Italian invasion, October 27, the American Red Cross moved swiftly to share in alleviating the suffering among the military and civilian populations. Since then $1,400,000 has been spent or committed by the American Red Cross to provide food, clothing, medical supplies, and other relief essentials. At this moment Red Cross supply officers are leading a 7,500-ton "mercy ship" at an eastern port with a million-dollar cargo of critically needed supplies. The vessel will leave soon for Athens. Another vessel, carrying $126,000 worth of supplies as a part of its cargo, now is en route to Athens. Through American Red Cross arrangements, the British Red Cross is rushing 25 ambulances from one of its middle east depots to Greece. These units will be replaced by the American Red Cross.

Early in December the American Red Cross set up war relief headquarters in Athens. Charles L. House, an American citizen long a resident of Greece, was placed in charge. Paul Thorn, a Red Cross representative from Geneva, was also ordered to Athens to assist Mr. House. Cable reports are being received by the national headquarters of the American Red Cross as to the needs of the Hellenic people, and the Greek office is working with the Greek Red Cross, Army Medical Corps, and Greek Ministry of Public Welfare, to alleviate as much suffering as possible.

Tobacco Company Report Indicates New Tax Results

A good example of the effect of increased federal taxation upon earnings is shown in the report of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. for the year ending December 31, 1940. Although net sales of $292,039,070 in 1940 were best since 1937 and an increase of 5.5 per cent over 1939 and profit margin was helped by lower prices paid for the 1939 leaf tobacco crop net earnings for 1940 were $25,548,424, equal to $2.55 a common share as against net of $25,645,455, or $2.56 a share in the previous year.

The answer is found in the statement that taxes in 1940 were up 43.9 per cent over 1939, with federal and state income taxes totaling $10,893,723—an increase of $3,323,806 over 1939. Virtually all of this increase was due to higher federal rates. The Reynolds business certainly is not of a national defense character and the showing made last year indicates what similarly placed businesses will have to do to keep profits at previous levels.

It is expected that dairy companies will have about the same story to tell. Net of National Dairy products for 1940 is estimated at from $1.60 to $1.70 a common share vs. $1.97 in previous year and Borden, which has profited from largely increased exports of evaporated and condensed milk, will show net of about $1.70 vs. $1.81 in 1939.

Stock prices slipped further downward Wednesday, for the fourth consecutive day, with the most favorable feature the fact that volume also continues to lessen as prices recede. Transactions Wednesday totaled 396,580 shares, as against 469,910 Tuesday and 474,770 Monday. The 30 industrial issues in the Dow-Jones averages lost .93 point Wednesday and closed at 151.51, lowest point for the day. The rails were off .25 to .29.6, and utilities declined .10 to .20.44. In the list of most active stocks the decline was general and but two issues, Gen. Theatre Equipment and Consolidated Cigar, showed gains, the former up 1/4 and the latter 1/4. Four of the active issues closed unchanged. Standard of N. J. led and lost 1/4 for the day.

Commodities moved irregularly higher, the index pointing .015 point. Firmness in corn, which closed at 1/2 to 3/4 cent a bushel higher, featured the grain market. Wheat closed 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher. Corn prices were influenced by the sensational advances in the hog market where a top of $9 a hundred-weight was reached, highest since September, 1939. Cotton resumed its upward trend and futures were six to 13 points higher. Leading eastern sugar refiners announced a five-point advance in their price basis, to 4.45 cents a pound, but announced that they would sell on a day-to-day basis at 4.40 until the end of the month. There were advances of one to 13 points in wool put futures although advances were checked by Boston selling during the day. Rubber futures closed almost 1/4 of a cent lower.

Stock Exchange seat sold for $31,000, off $2,000 from previous transaction and a new low since 1899, when there was a sale at $29,500.

Directors of Bendix Aviation Corp. declared a dividend of $1 a share. Paid 50 cents a share in March and June last year and 75 cents a share each in September and December.

About the Folks

Benjamin J. Van Demark of 743 Broadway is a patient in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Locke of 175 Tremper avenue are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a son, Victor Allen, born in the Kingston Hospital.

Henry Albright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Albright, of 117 Hunter street, has joined the U. S. Navy, and expects to leave shortly for Boston.

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—An early attempt at a rally soon met opposition in today's stock market and many leading issues again moved downward fractions to a point or so.

While a handful of favorites managed to contest the trend with modest advances, steels and other industrials were prominent on the retreat.

Selling picked up in the forenoon but dwindled near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 600,000 against yesterday's turnover of around 400,000, smallest in three months. Notwithstanding a fair amount of business optimism, brokers said, many potential share buyers maintained aloofness because of war and tax doubts and the desire to await results of the battle in congress over the lease-lend bill.

Bonds and commodities were irregularly lower. Stocks on the losing end most of the day included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Western Union, Santa Fe, Dow Chemical, du Pont, Bath Iron Works, International Agricultural preferred, Consolidated Cigar prior preferred, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Gypsum. Standard Oil of N. J., along with many others, held to a narrow range.

Crane Co. preferred made a new 1940-41 high and occasional support was accorded Southern Pacific, American Telephone, Reynolds Tobacco "B" and International Harvester.

Slipping in the curb were Gulf Oil, Mead Johnson, Humble Oil, American Cyanamid "B", Phoenix Securities and Niagara Hudson Power.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Fit for an epicure yet so economical that they will help you balance the food budget are cross-cut shanks of beef. If you haven't tried cooking them, you have a surprise as well as a treat in store. Shanks are among the less tender cuts of beef, but slow cooking in moist heat softens the muscle fibers and makes them tender as well as delicious. For braising, the first cut of the foreshank is usually chosen. Beef shanks are often chosen for soup meat and they are good for this purpose because they are rich in flavor.

CROSS-CUT BEEF SHANKS

Foreshanks of beef cut in this fashion may be cooked like a pot roast, by braising. Shanks are also cooked in water and they are good as soup meat.

This section can also be cut into small pieces for stew or used for grinding.

Braised Beef Shanks

Dredge shanks with flour and season with salt and pepper. Brown in hot lard. Add one cup water, cover, and allow to simmer about two hours or until done. Add additional water as needed. About 45 minutes before the meat is done, add potatoes.

Beef Shank With Dressing

3 pounds beef shank
3 tablespoons bacon drippings or lard
2 cups hot water

Hearty Fare for a Wintry Day

Cross-cut shanks, braised and served with browned potatoes, are a satisfying main dish when appetites are keen. The shanks are cooked by braising. Gravy, made by thickening the liquid in which the meat is cooked, is a delicious part of the meal.

2 cups bread crumbs
Flour
1 onion, diced
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Sage
Salt and pepper

Cut the meat from the shank into 1 1/2-inch cubes. Season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Brown on all sides in hot bacon drippings or lard. When nicely browned, add water and simmer until the meat is tender. Place the pieces of meat in a baking dish, add enough stock to cover and over this spread a thick layer of dressing made by moistening the bread crumbs with meat stock and seasoning with sage, onion, parsley, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Place in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and bake for 30 minutes.

How Was He to Know

Oklahoma City (AP)—The young infantryman who knocked on the door of Mrs. Kenneth S. Whittemore's home told a tale of being stranded while en route to Cleveland from "my outfit in El Paso." "What is your outfit?" asked Mrs. Whittemore, who had placed a plate of food before him. "The Eighth infantry," said her guest. "That's strange," replied Mrs. Whittemore. "My husband is a lieutenant colonel and served several years with the Eighth. It happens now to be between Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C. 'Excuse me, please,' said the young soldier.

Attorney Charges Deliberate Delay In Starting Case

Charges of attempting to delay trial of an action in supreme court by producing a physician's statement of illness of an important and necessary witness on the day the action was to be tried, were made by Arthur B. Ewig Wednesday in supreme court and he asked the court to check the facts contained in the doctor's statement because he said he believed the statements were not wholly true.

Nathan L. Feldman of Kingston brought an action against the Brooklyn Contractors' Machinery Exchange, Inc., and another, to recover on a check. The case was ready for trial Wednesday but the defendant forwarded a statement of a physician to the effect that one Baker, an official of the corporation, was ill and unable to attend the trial.

Mr. Ewig told Justice Harry E. Schirick that he did not believe the witness was ill and substantiated his statement by telling of telephone conversations to the witness's home and office. At the home of the witness a woman informed him that Mr. Baker was out of town while at the office, after some delay, the operator said Mr. Baker was home ill.

Mr. Ewig said he believed the scheme was simply to delay the case and he told the court he did not believe Mr. Baker was ill. He asked the court to check the story and then to permit the plaintiff to proceed with the case.

Justice Schirick requested Assistant District Attorney Frederick Stang to make an investigation through the New York police and ascertain whether Mr. Baker was ill at home and also said that the statement of the physician to the effect that Mr. Baker was ill at home should be investigated by the district attorney to ascertain the truthfulness of the statement and if the facts were not as stated, that the matter be called to the attention of the authorities.

"Probably by now Mr. Baker will be at home when he learns that Kingston is calling about this case," said Mr. Ewig. Justice Schirick, however, directed the investigation by the district attorney's office and said false statements made to the court to delay trial of cases would not be tolerated.

The doctor's statement was not in the proper form of affidavit required and pending the outcome of the investigation as to the illness of Mr. Baker, Justice Schirick allowed the plaintiff to proceed with the proof of the case. The charge made by the plaintiff is that payment was stopped on a check of substantial amount.

Prior to taking testimony in the case Justice Schirick directed that the statements of Mr. Ewig relative to his attempting to get in touch with Mr. Baker at his home and at his office were made a part of the record. Mr. Ewig and his secretary listened in on the conversation in the Baker home when a statement was made that Mr. Baker was out of town and also to the office conversation to the effect that Mr. Baker was ill at home.

Maurice B. Lieberman appears as attorney of record for the defendant.

PICTURE NEWS

'SEE THAT FELLOW IN THERE'—Any mistakes University of Pennsylvania crewmen make are right there to haunt them in the mirror, as Coach Rusty Callow points out. First man in the dusty reflection is Ernest Clark; next is Archie Bittner.

BOOM'S ON, AT FORT DIX—Toward targets a mile away the F battery, 156th field artillery, directed their fire, using 37 mm. guns mounted on 75's. Scene is the range at Fort Dix, N. J.

FEAT—Her prestige as one of the youngest skilled commercial pilots in the country went up when Gertrude Meserve (above), 19, landed a plane with one wheel at Boston airport. She and her passenger were a little shaken up, but unhurt.

MOVES UP—Capt. David Margesson (above), who was named Britain's war minister to succeed Anthony Eden when latter became foreign minister, was former government "whip."

SHE SANG BUT NOT FOR SUPPER—Patricia Prochnik hurried over to kiss Grandpa Edward P. James of Brookline, Mass., when he and his wife attended the Washington debut of Miss Prochnik as a singer. The girl's father is Edgar L. G. Prochnik, the last Austrian minister to U. S., who's now with Georgetown U.; her mother was formerly Gretchen James of St. Paul.

LITTLE MISS GADABOUT—Three-year-old Gwendolyn Meisler can afford to turn up her tiny nose at persons who talk about their travels, for she's a seasoned gadabout in spite of her tender years. She's now at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Quinn of Philadelphia, after completing her third Pacific ocean crossing. Her parents still are in China.

SHE TRAVELS, TOO—Storms she and fellow passengers aboard the Portuguese liner, Carvalho Araujo, encountered in the Atlantic are forgotten as Dinah Kauders, 2, little Czech girl, reaches U.S. She's going to visit friends in Boston.

TO THE RACES—Two racing enthusiasts at Hialeah track opening in Miami, Fla., were Peter A. B. Widener of New York and Philadelphia, and Mrs. Dodge Sloane, socialite. At 17-1, Liberty Flight, owned by W. F. Mannagh of Texas, won opener.

COME AND GET 'EM—When 495 student pilots, largest class ever to start flight instruction at Randolph Field, Texas, reported, their training planes were lined up and waiting.

APPEAL—Dorothy Thompson, writer and outspoken critic of Hitler, is shown during a recent radio appeal to the German people in Germany for a belief in democracy.

NO BALANCE TODAY—Sen. Alva B. Adams, Colorado democrat who may have tried this before, tries again to put the national budget in balance. But it's only the budget message to congress in which F.D.P. asked for more than $17,000,000,000.

PREXY—At the helm of the Miami jockey club now busy with the Hialeah season is John Clinton Clark (above) of Binghamton, N. Y. Both Clark and his wife are sports enthusiasts; this is his first term as president of the club.

AND NOT A CENT TO SPEND—That $50,000 being examined in Washington by Frank J. Wilson (left), chief of the Secret Service, and James Haley of the contraband division won't go any farther. It's counterfeit, and was put on display as the Secret Service studied ways to protect the nation against bogus money. Millions in fake currency are in the safe (rear).

LONGS FOR AFRICA—Life on a little farm at Oakham, Mass., seems pretty tame to Dr. James B. McCord (above), 70, who spent more than 40 years as a doctor in South Africa, pitting his wits and medicine against savage witch doctors. His African curios are heaped on the table, while in his hands he holds the rather skimpy beaded "dresses" worn by native girls.

Side Roads To New Culinary Adventures

MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

It's fun to go adventuring with dishes that are out of the general run. Something different — not necessarily costly — props up winter meal appeal and stimulates cooking interest for the home maker.

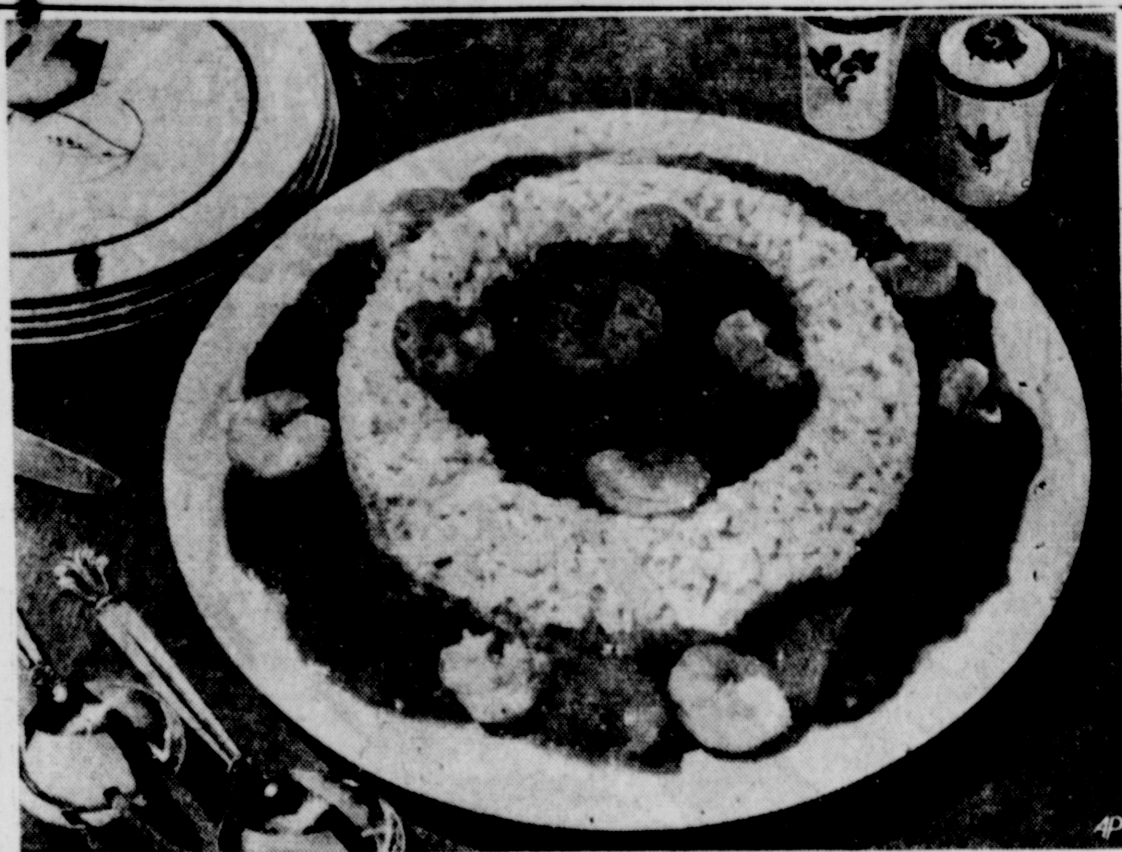

Try your hand at new dishes this winter. Mushrooms, avocados, broccoli, eggplant, shrimp and other foods available in your home markets. Here are some directions:

MUSHROOM CHOWDER. Simmer 5 minutes in 3 tablespoons oil. Add 1 tablespoon each of onion, green peppers and celery. Add 2 cups cream of mushroom soup and 2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives. Serve in hot soup and top with balls cut from avocados. Enough to serve four.

FISH BOX. Scoop the crumbs on a loaf of day-old bread, read the inside with butter and dash of garlic. Toast until well browned and fill with creamed onion, shrimp, or tuna mixed with a savory cream sauce. Sprinkle with grated cheese and reheat in a moderate oven.

CORN-STUFFED EGGPLANT. Cut a large eggplant lengthwise in halves. Cover with boiling salted water (1 teaspoon salt for each cup water) and boil gently 15 minutes. Drain and remove pulp from each half of the eggplant. Fill the pulp with 2 cups corn, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1/4 teaspoon each of salt, white pepper and chopped parsley. Refill the plant cases and strip each with pieces of bacon. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Eggplant also very good stuffed with any other stuffing.

PEACH-FILLED AVOCADOS. Cut 3 avocados lengthwise in halves. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

SHRIMP CREOLE. A dish that got its start in old New Orleans. You make it this way: Cut 3 strips of bacon in 1/4-inch pieces and put in frying pan with 2 sliced onions. Cook until bacon is crisp, then add one green pepper, cut in rings, 1/2 cup diced celery, 3 cups tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt. Cook until the celery and pepper are tender and the sauce is thickened. Add 2 No. 1 cans of shrimp and one teaspoon chili powder and cook 5 minutes more. Mold rice in ring and surround with sauce.

Fill each half with thick creamed crab. Sprinkle with grated cheese mixed with melted butter and crumbs. Arrange in a shallow pan, add a fourth-inch layer of hot water, and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove to a heated serving platter.

BROCCOLI CREOLE. Brown 4 tablespoons each of chopped onions, green peppers, celery and parsley in 4 tablespoons bacon fat. Add 4 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika and 1/3 teaspoon granulated sugar. Pour in 2 cups tomato juice and cook until a thick sauce forms. Add 4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced, and pour over 3 cups of cooked, seasoned broccoli in a buttered shallow baking dish. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

CELERY OYSTER PIE. Line a shallow baking dish with rich biscuit dough. Bake until well browned. Fill with creamed celery and oysters. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

OMELET SURPRISE. Brown cooked chicken livers in butter and pour into a buttered frying pan. Cover with egg omelet and bake 20 minutes in a moderately slow oven. Turn onto a heated platter, livers up. About half a cup of livers is needed for a 4- or 5-egg omelet. Giblets can be used in place of livers.

Ulster County Chapter Has Balance Of $408.50 to Aid 'Polio' Work

since I have been treasurer of the fund. We endeavor to meet every request which is presented to us by the members of the medical profession and through the various church groups, our local welfare agencies and the state orthopedic nurses."

Mr. Herzog stated that several cases in which the fund had become interested in 1940, would need further assistance in 1941 and this would bear heavily on available money. Also, he advised members of the committee that new cases were expected to be brought to the attention of the committee and since the committee's policy was not to deny any call for help which came through the Ulster County Medical Society, a fund of at least $1,500 would be needed to succeed in maintaining the work of the past year.

Treasurer Herzog also explained to the committee that in 1940, the Ulster county chapter had contributed $300 towards the operation of the national foundation. "As you know, the national foundation is distributing its funds among hundreds of research laboratories, hospitals, colleges, and other channels, in order that the fight to eradicate infantile paralysis can be continued on all fronts. Dissemination of vital information necessary toward the treatment of infantile paralysis also is carried on as a work of the national foundation. Many people have the impression that a large percentage of this money which is sent to the national foundation is turned over to Warm Springs Hospital. This is not true. According to the reports of the national foundation, Warm Springs receives only a small donation and this is purely for research work, and not for any expense incurred in the operation of Warm Springs."

Mr. Herzog paid high tribute to the close co-operation which he received from Dr. Saul Ritchie who represents the Ulster County Medical Society and thanked all others who had contributed toward Charlotte A. Peck of Hurley to Clifford J. and Wilson S. Sheeley of town of Marlborough, land in town of Rochester.

George A. and Albert T. Miller of town of Saugerties to Margaret Miller of same place, land in town of Saugerties.

Plain Facts Surprising

Iola, Kas., (AP)—After an airplane crash was reported recently at Iola there arrived at the scene in this order: One newspaperman, a lawyer, an undertaker, two carloads of policemen and state highway patrolmen. They found the wreckage of a model airplane that had snagged a fence post.

Columbia, Mo. (AP)—The young daughter of Robert Carson persuaded him to demonstrate when he asserted her cod liver oil was pleasurable. The oil coated the black mustache of which he was so proud, and the fish odor on it defied persistent efforts to remove it. Finally he shaved the thing off.

Betting Odds Will Favor Armstrong Friday Night

Boxing Experts Can't See Why Zivic Is Underdog; Ticket Sale Promises Sellout at Garden

By SID FEDER
New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The billed batters of Jacobs Beach, who never get their feet wet, couldn't make up their minds to say whether the betting men believe in miracles, are simple creatures of habit or have turned charitable at last.

The odds were 5 to 9 that Henry Armstrong would win back his welterweight title in a 15-round tussle with Fritz Zivic in Madison Square Garden Friday night, and making Henry the Hammer favorite just didn't add up, even to those fortunate enough to own an adding machine.

First off, Fritz gave the great little negro warrior a considerable beating when he took the 147-pound crown last October. Secondly, in his recent training, Henry has not looked good while the Pittsburgher has been as impressive and smooth as a political machine. And, if you want to know, Armstrong will be without the services of his manager and long-time pal, Eddie Mead, for Friday's fight. Ray Arcel, the veteran second, will handle Henry's corner in place of ailing Eddie.

Some said the betting boys may have put Fritz on the short end of the price because Armstrong hasn't been the waging underdog around here in so long the gambling men just couldn't change now. Possibly the more logical reasoning is that Armstrong was great for so long, and Zivic was kicking around the bush leagues so long that the boys believe he is just another miracle the little buzzsaw can perform. Henry is near the end of the road now, but he, himself is convinced he is a better man than Zivic any day in the week.

The "experts" are really up in the air about this. Although most of them lean toward Zivic, several who string along with Armstrong admit they're doing it out of (1) sentiment and (2) the fact that Henry has pulled tougher chestnuts out of bigger fires than this. This corner goes with Zivic this time, largely because Armstrong, after years as the rip-roaring offensive fighter in the game, suddenly has changed his style and is thinking about defense.

Win or lose for either, however, the folks who foot the bill for the weekly wallop wars at the Garden are giving Promoter Mike Jacobs plenty to smile about this time. Up to last night, the advance sale was just under the $30,000 mark, and "Uncle Mike" predicted a sellout. Naturally, it won't disappoint him.

Youngsters Lead West Coast Golf

Linkensmen Start 2nd Round in Open Tournament

San Francisco, Jan. 16 (AP)—Two comparatively unknown youngsters of the professional golfing world set the pace today as the country's greatest linkensmen teed off in the second round of the 36-hole qualifying trials of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open tournament.

Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., led the parade, with a five under par 67 for the Presidio course. Marjorie Heifner, a caddy at the Stanford University course, near Palo Alto, Calif., was two under behind the leader.

The 25-year-old Michigan entry, taking his first trip over the tournament circuit, entered pro ranks a year ago. He succeeded his father at the Battle Creek Country Club. Heifner, formerly of Denver, was unheard of until he appeared for the Oakland open last week.

McNeill Advances To Semi-Finals

National Champ Scores Win Over Hal Surface

Orlando, Fla., Jan. 16 (AP)—Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, national tennis champion, stuck to pund tennis to eliminate the bid of Hal Surface, Kansas City ace, in the annual Orlando tennis championship.

McNeill reached the semi-finals yesterday, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Surface seemed to try too hard at the start of the match and his forehand suffered.

The country's second ranking player, Bobby Riggs of Chicago, took his task lightly and won a 6-3, 6-1 victory over R. O. Rose of Orlando. Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., won from Norman Copeland, Orlando, 6-0, 6-1 and Jack Kramer, of California, ousted Glenn Wilson, of Orlando, 6-3.

Kramer was matched today with rank Guernsey of Orlando. Riggs faced Jack Yeider, also of Orlando, and the winner was pitted against Wayne Sabin in an afternoon match. Cooke was scheduled to meet the winner between El Davis and Eddie Allou of Orlando.

Mrs. Elwood Cooke, the former Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., on an easy victory over Kathryn Johnson, Orlando city champion, 6-2, 6-0, and other favorites advanced in the women's division.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Jan. 15—Ace Parker's bum leg is getting no better rapidly and if he winds up on the Duke coaching staff don't fall out of your chair. That's what Maxie Rosenbloom's new Miami joint has other night club owners down there on the anxious bench. Two new angels having popped up, "Hy, Gentleman," (which marked the rise and fall of Max Baer as an actor) may be revived. What goes on in the back busting industry, anyhow? Joe Louis lectures before a Boston book club and now Molo (To The Rescue) Theodorescu, the Rumanian welterweight, is going to play the fiddle in Carnegie Hall, a very, very high class spot.

Today's Guest Star
Victor O. Jones, Boston Evening Globe: "When Tuss McLaughry moves in at Dartmouth, he'll find his son, young Tuss, who is a great fullback, waiting for him. Tuss is unusual in that he doesn't desire to go to college to produce fullbacks—he raises his own."

Near and Far
Babe Ruth has been hunting pheasants in Pennsylvania and is now getting ready to do a little fishing through the ice. Missouri claims the fastest growing athlete in college today, Ray Shelley, a freshman, was two weeks late reporting for football because he had to wait until a shoemaker made him a pair of size 15. He was late reporting for basketball for the same reason. P. S.: They already are at work on his track shoes. Sure sign of Spring: Frank G. Menke, than whom there is none whopper as a press agent, has started beating the tom toms for the Kentucky Derby. Experts at Miami are rating Our Boots over Whirlaway, by the way.

Good Luck
Paul Brown is in, and may he win. For at Ohio State they often shout, "Throw that bum out!" And sing a hymn of hate. We may as well admit the facts—The going may be rough. Ten thousands downtown quarterbacks Can make it mighty tough.

Sports Cocktail
Richest of the jockeys is Wayne Wright who cleaned up on tips from his employer, Joseph E. Widener. Red Burman still owns his first pair of boxing shoes—a $3 pair which have been nailed in Texas, sewed in Nevada and patched in Miami. Larry MacPhail was immensely pleased at the interest shown by three Durham (N. C.) sportsmen who came here to ask him to put a Dodge Piedmont League farm in Durham. He told Frank Pierson, Donnie Sorrell and Robert L. Lindsey Durham has a 50-50 chance to beat out Roanoke, Va. Robert (Red) Hare, athletic director at St. Paul's School at Garden City, is the likely successor to Frank Kenney as football, baseball and basketball coach at Rhode Island State when Kenney moves up to head the athletic department.

Ouch Dept.
Here's a stray lump from the Sugar Bowl. "Right-of-Way" Currievan snatched Johnny Butler so hard it knocked the living daylight out of him. As Johnny picked himself up, he drawled, "You-all sure do hit hard up north." "What do you mean, all," asked Currievan. "I'm the only guy who popped you."

So What?
What does it matter whether Johnny Bulla played a 35 or a 45-cent ball in winning the Los Angeles Open? Anyway, it wasn't the eight ball.

'Bowl' Games Are Scored by Official

Dr. Broussard Says Schools Can't Resist Money

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 16 (AP)—Football "bowl" games are the "most marked evidences of commercialization of college athletics," school treasuries can't resist the lure of big money, says Dr. James F. Broussard, Louisiana State University's athletic council chairman for 26 years. "Colleges," said Dr. Broussard, who has seen his own school in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl three times, "cannot resist the pressure of outside influences" when considering post season games.

"Football," he said at the annual grid banquet last night, "is today a highly organized and commercialized business and no academic sophistication can cover up that fact."

"It is so highly commercialized that a city, on the day following a bowl game, proudly announced through its papers that over a million dollars was spent in its hotels, cafes and stores, all because of 22 college athletes, kept in training and practice a month beyond the normal season, came there to play a game of football."

No mention is made of the $100,000 check that each athletic director and his bonus-minded staff bring back to the proud Alma Mater. Everybody is happy and satisfied except the athlete, bewildered by these huge figures and wondering what he is going to get out of it.

Methodists to Play

The Trinity Methodist softball team will play the Wurts Street Baptist club Friday evening at the Trinity Church. Monday evening the Methodists will meet the Congregationalists at the latter's hall.

the capture of Bardia has not yet begun on Tobruk.

Ends Hunger Strike

The Italian General Francesco Argento, captured four days ago by a British motorboat crew after he escaped from Sidi Barrani and Bardia, was reported to have ended a hunger strike with the cry: "For all I care about this desert, you can have it! I myself am a poet."

A graphic cable account of the Nazi dive-bombing attack on the aircraft carrier Illustrious came from Larry Allen, an Associated Press reporter:

"I witnessed the first part of the attack from the bridge, where part of the time I was flat on my face, my hands folded across my head, while splinters of steel swept the carrier's decks and 'thump, thump' of anti-aircraft guns mingled with the scream of the dive bombers and the crash of bursting bombs."

"Bombs fell all about the ship, rocking her so that at times it appeared she was about to turn over."

On the Albanian battlefield, the Greeks were reported to have seized important mountain heights, north of Klisura, taking the Italians by surprise by attacking during a severe snowstorm.

"The Greeks continued their victorious advance," an Athens government spokesman declared.

In Tokyo, the Japanese press urged haste in pushing Japan's "southward program" and exhorted the government to prepare for resolute action to offset British and American influence in East Asia.

Stimson Thinks U. S. Faces Peril Of Air Invasion

constituted one great funnel through which all the production of such materials in this country will be ordered and through which the materials when finished will flow from the production lines; and that consistent with our national policy, as it has been enunciated and endorsed by the Congress and the people, we shall then be in a position to apportion these munitions among ourselves and other democracies whose defense is important to us.

"This plan has many advantages. It will eliminate the competition of many different purchasing agencies from different countries. . . . It enables us to build a well-ordered system of placing contracts and to utilize and carry into effect the studies which have been made over a period of 20 years by our army and navy officials in preparation for just such an emergency as we now face."

Stimson summed the measure up as "a forthright and clear grant of power which will enable the President to place in operation the best and simplest plan to carry out a national policy many times stated and endorsed."

Stimson was the only witness called today. Secretary of Navy Knox and William S. Knudsen, director general of defense production, will present their testimony tomorrow.

When the hearing recessed, Rep. Fish of New York, ranking Republican member of the committee and announced leader of House opposition to the bill, announced eight of 17 witnesses he had invited had accepted and would appear next week. Chairman Bloom (D-N. Y.) told reporters however that he knew "nothing about" arrangements for their appearance.

Those Fish said had accepted included Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate in the recent election; Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to London; Norman Thomas, Socialist party leader; General Hugh Johnson, and Verne Marshall, chairman of the no foreign war committee.

Morgenthau placed in the committee record yesterday the British "balance sheet" which so many legislators have wanted to see before making up their minds whether to support President Roosevelt's program for making the United States "the great arsenal" of embattled democracies.

He said he was giving it with the "consent of the British government" and remarked that it was the "first time in history that one government put at the disposal of another figures of this nature."

Picture of Anglo Status
The balance sheet offered this at-a-glance picture of Britain's status in dollar exchange:

On hand, Jan. 1, 1941, $1,775,000,000
Receipts expected in 1941 1,555,000,000
Expenditures to be met 3,019,000,000
Amount left for future orders $11,000,000

"I am satisfied," Morgenthau informed the committee, "that Britain can pay this year for what she has already bought with dollars, but when it comes to finding dollars to pay for anything else which they need they just haven't got it."

He said the war costing Britain 12,000,000 pounds (around $50,000,000) a day, with 40 per cent being raised by taxes and 60 per cent by borrowing.

The treasury head said Britain already had paid for and taken delivery on $1,337,000,000 worth of war equipment and supplies in the United States up to January 1.

Besides the balance sheet, Morgenthau offered for the record a tabulation estimating long term investments of the United States at a "nominal" value of $15,500,000,000, but said much of these could not be converted readily into dollars.

"Because the money isn't in sight," he said, the British purchasing commission here had virtually ceased placing further orders for needed supplies.

Figures Differ
The figures which Morgenthau presented differed somewhat from computations of other government departments on British reserves. Officials said that his $1,775,000,000 estimate covered only so-called "quick assets" which could easily be converted into cash, and that it represented only the United Kingdom, as distinguished from the whole British commonwealth of nations.

The commerce department recently reported that total United Kingdom investments here at the end of August were $2,561,000,000, while Canadian holdings in the United States amounted to $1,233,000,000. The investments of other parts of the empire were not estimated.

At one juncture, Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) inquired as to the prospects for British repayment of the supplies in kind after the war, as provided in the bill. Vorys remarked that his 12-year-old son spoke of the British aid legislation as a "lend-lose" bill.

Makes No Prophecies

Morgenthau met the ally with a smile. "Whether we get paid back or not, I don't know. And I am not going to make any prophecies."

The treasury chief was the second witness. Hull was the first cabinet officer to face the committee, and an intent throng of spectators followed his every word as he read from a long prepared statement, reviewing the nation's foreign policies and urging all speed in aiding Britain.

"The forces of conquest," he declared, are "now on the march across the earth." Presenting a particularized indictment of the record of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis, he told the committee that "the law of self-defense" was now and must be the nation's guiding principle.

Continuing, he said: "The most serious question today for this country is whether the control of the high seas shall pass into the hands of powers bent on a program of unlimited conquest. It is in this light, above all, that we should order our present-day thinking and action with respect to the amount of material assistance which our country is prepared to furnish Great Britain."

Hull and Morgenthau both were subjected to cross-examination so searching that veteran observers could not recall its like in recent years when cabinet officers were on the stand in a public session.

Germans Say Invasion Would Have Spared British

Berlin, Jan. 16 (AP)—German invasion of Britain in the fall of 1940 "would have spared the English people some distress and grief because the present form of aerial warfare which was conjured up by Churchill would have been avoided," Adolf Hitler's Volksbecher Beobachter observed today.

The question as to why there was no invasion after the retreat at Dunkerque and after France's defeat will be answered by Germany at the opportune time and "not only with words," the paper said, warning that the British must keep on expecting it.

It added that vainly-awaited invasion had worsened England's strategic position and said the next six months would not be idly wasted by the Reich.

It held that United States aid could not be extensive in that period because experience taught that it was a long way from drafting board to production.

Hitler's statement that Germany had plenty of submarines will gain import during the six-month period, the paper concluded, because American aid ultimately was not only a production but a supply problem.

Assemblyman Wadlin Is On Assembly Committee

Two of the committees on which Assemblyman John F. Wadlin has been placed, one of them particularly, are of importance to Ulster county. They are the committee on city of New York and the committee on international affairs. Former Assemblyman, now County Judge J. Edward Conway, was a member of both these committees. In addition to these Assemblyman Wadlin also has been placed on the committee on labor and industry and the committee on pensions.

Rose Fein, 32, of New York city, charged with vagrancy, had her hearing set down for later in police court.

Skeet Shoot Resumes

The Ulster County Gun Club will resume activities at its Plank Road skeet range Saturday afternoon. Regular shooting was discontinued last November with the opening of the hunting season. Since that season has finished members have been anxious to have more action. The skeet trap will be in operation at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The club extends an invitation to all scatter-gun enthusiasts.

Growers Request Fund From State; Morgan Is Elected

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP)—The New York State Horticultural Society today called for a $9,000 state appropriation to continue fruit juice research work at the Geneva Experiment Station, "curtailed seriously by withdrawal of cooperative financial support of the U. S. department of agriculture."

In another resolution, the society's 86th annual meeting asked the federal government to shift to the general public some of the burden "the apple industry is carrying because of imports from other American nations under the good neighbor policy." One method of effecting the resolution proposed surplus marketing administration purchases of imported apples and pears.

The session also asked continuation of experimental programs at the State College of Agriculture and the Geneva station, endorsed improvements in New York city terminal marketing and urged restoration of competitive fruit exhibits at the state fair with commensurate premiums.

First Vice President Percy Morgan of Lewiston was elevated to the presidency, succeeding J. Wessel Ten Broeck, Jr., of Hudson. Re-elected were Secretary-Treasurer Roy P. McPherson of Leroy and Vice Presidents Bruce J. Jones of Hall, Theodor Oxholm of Esopus and Mark E. Buckman of Sodus. Carl G. Wooster of Union Hall was elected a vice president and Dr. A. B. Burrell of Peru was added to the directorate.

Charged With Rape

Stanley Freer, 22, of Gardiner, R.D., was arrested today by Sergeant Hulse and Trooper Lynn Baker of the B.C.I. on a charge of rape in the second degree. He was brought to the Ulster county jail after arraignment before Justice Seth C. Lippincott.

Strike Is Settled

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—A nine-day strike of 426 grocery truck drivers which cut off deliveries to 15,000 independent retail grocers, was settled early today with the signing of a new one-year contract.

Attending Meeting

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 16 (AP)—Draft officials were informed today that in the event of a walkout at the Ryan Aeronautical Company plant here, strikers eligible for selective service would be subject to reclassification. Lt. Col. Maurice Sparling, U. S. N. R., liaison officer attached to state draft headquarters, told local boards that workers placed in a deferred class because of their employment in the airplane factory would not be entitled to retain that status should they walk out.

It Was Ruddy Bucket

London, Jan. 16 (AP)—A man buried in bombed ruins guided rescuers to him today by pounding a bucket—into which his head had been wedged by the blasts—against concrete. His first words when the squad finally reached him were: "For Heaven's sake, get this ruddy bucket from off my ears!" Several other persons also were brought out alive.

Accord Firemen Elect Officers For Coming Year

About 50 members of the Accord Fire Department turned out for the annual meeting Tuesday night and officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Harry Ford, president; Hiram Brooks, vice president; Ernest Davis, secretary; Donald Schoonmaker, treasurer; Lewis H. Miller, John Miller and Frances Coddington, trustees.

Supervisor Howard C. Anderson is chief of the department and Edward Carle is assistant chief. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

The Accord firemen have had several tests of their ability lately and have been making good. The latest was on the morning of their annual meeting when they put out a fire that, had it gone much farther, would have threatened destruction of the Sondak boarding house at Granite, in addition to several nearby buildings. The department at present has about 70 members and a new pumper recently was added to the equipment.

Letters addressed to Greece must now be carried around the Cape of Good Hope into the Indian Ocean and thence overland through Iran and Turkey.
